

BIOGRAPHY OF OLUWAFUNKE OPEYEMI AKINBULE

Mrs. Oluwafunke Akinbule (Nee OBANLA) is a young academic who specializes in Nutrition and Dietetics. She had a diploma in Food Technology in 2006, had her first and second degrees in Nutrition and Dietetics at Federal University of Agriculture Abeokuta (FUNAAB), Ogun State, Nigeria in 2010 and 2014 respectively. She was the first student to obtain a First-Class Honors' Degree in Nutrition and Dietetics in the history of the University. Her passion for Nutrition and Dietetics made her to proceed for her Doctorate Degree in Nutrition and Dietetics in 2015 at the same University she had her first and second degree.

Mrs. Oluwafunke Akinbule joined the services of Federal University of Agriculture Abeokuta in 2012 as Junior Research Fellow in the department of Nutrition and Dietetics, an offer automatically given to First Class students of the University at that time. On completion of her Master's degree, she was upgraded to the position of Assistant Lecturer in 2014 and became Lecturer II in 2017. She won the Senate Annual Prize for First Class Honors' Graduating Students in FUNAAB in 2010 and Dufil, Prima Nutrition Postgraduate Scholarship Award in 2012. In 2015 she became an AWARD fellow mentee and got a travel grant to attend Women's Leadership and Management skill for Career Development, African Women in Agricultural Research and Development (AWARD).

She has served several special assignments within the department and University and attended various local and international training programmes as well as conferences. Mrs. Oluwafunke Akinbule has published eleven (11) articles in learned local and international journals, four (4) articles accepted for publication and six (6) articles in referred conference proceedings. She has also supervised 45 undergraduate projects.

Her research interests are: Recipe standardization and recipe development studies, food composition data, dietary intake studies, behavioural risk factors for diet-related non-communicable chronic diseases, food safety and hygiene, food insecurity and associated factors.

Her hobbies include: travelling, reading, cooking
